The Afrodite Vanity Desk turns a daily ritual into an object. In myth, Aphrodite rises from sea foam, bringing a sense of natural, effortless beauty, never showy. In the same spirit, this piece both conceals and reveals: closed, it reads as a compact, precious volume, almost like a shell; open, it becomes an intimate space for self-care, where each gesture is part of a personal ritual.

The leather-lined drawers reveal their beauty gradually, almost as a quiet surprise.

The mirror, opening and closing like a small private stage, completes the story, turning each moment into a calm, intimate experience.
